Happy New Year!

Something about the New Year can give one a longer term view. What do I want to work towards over the course of the year? What do I want to let go of, or move towards for the next decade?

Well, if your pickleball skills are in the mix, then here's another clinic with Matthew making stuff up to try and help/talk/trick/cajole you into exploring your limiting habits and help you find some upgrades that will serve you long term.

This 3 hour long clinic will cover three main topics:

Movement

Balance & Stability - Moving through air, not mud.

Micro and macro adjustments that are the foundation of every shot you hit. I don't know if I can teach you exactly what you need, but whatever your level of play I can assure you of raised awareness to better possibilities. I have previously only taught this in private lessons, so we shall see how it goes in our group setting!

Paddle Artistry

Every shot involves your connection with and control of the paddle in your hand. There is a depth and subtlety that are ever opening - the more you learn and the more you see; the more becomes available to you on the court.

Transition Shots

Point-winning 3rd, 5th & 7th Shots - Drops & Drives - When, How & Where.

Getting yourself from the back of the court up to the kitchen line when your team is serving. These shots more than any other determine your level of play.

These are the shots you need if you like winning points. Remember, you will only win points while serving; you can win rallies receiving, but no points!

I have limited this clinic to 15 participants for our 3 indoor courts; we will play 5 to a court. In my experience having a 5-player rotation allows everyone to experience the 4 different hitting positions and adds the extra benefit of a turn at being the observer.

I'm looking forward to an interesting 3 hours with you!
